

FORMAL DEDICATION OF THE NEW CHURCH

Rev. Dr. Milligan of Toronto Occupies Pulpit of First Presbyterian Morning and Evening

ABLE SERMONS BY THE NOTED DIVINE

Pioneer Western Missionary, Dr. Baird, Also Takes Part in Dedication Service.

The handsome new building erected by the congregation of the First Presbyterian church, which is marking thirty-one years of Presbyterian work in the city—was formally opened and dedicated to the use of public worship yesterday. The scene the interior of the building presented at the morning and evening services was a memorable one especially to those who were here on the days of small things and who had spared to witness it.

It was fitting that a prominent pastor of the service should have been taken by the pioneer of Presbyterianism in the Edmonton district in the person of the Rev. A. H. Baird, who came out to Edmonton as the first Presbyterian missionary in 1881, and who was the present minister, the Rev. G. McQueen, being placed in the large part in building the Presbyterian church in Edmonton, which followed here in 1887.

Veteran Minister Preaches.

The sermon at yesterday's services was preached by the veteran Presbyterian, the Rev. G. McQueen, D.D., of Toronto, pastor emeritus of old St. Andrew's church. Other ministers taking part in the service were Dr. McQueen, Dr. Baird, Dr. Nicol and the Rev. James Douglas.

The services were of a specially interesting character and of such a nature as to render the dedication a very able manner. Mrs. A. McQueen, an earnest service, and R. H. McQueen, who delivered the address at the evening service, were the soloists.

At the morning service the Rev. Dr. McQueen referred to the Rev. Dr. Baird as "the pioneer of Presbyterianism in this city and the province of Alberta, who planted here the first Presbyterian church thirty-one years ago and who had laid the foundation of the church that is standing here today." There was no man in the church, said Dr. McQueen, who did not owe his membership to the one who struck into this lone land and who had come to the northwest, the corner stone of the Presbyterian church in Canada.

Dedication by Dr. Baird.

Dr. Baird read the dedication act and offered the dedicatory prayer. He said the pleasure which Dr. McQueen referred to at the morning service, was his also. He deplored if those who came to the service had not been so full of thankfulness for the work of the pioneer of Presbyterianism here. He said that he had been a member of the church in the city of Toronto for many years and that he had been a member of the church in the city of Toronto for many years and that he had been a member of the church in the city of Toronto for many years.

STRONG ATTACK ON RADICAL 'SCHOOL' BY THE ENEMIES OF THE CHURCH ARE THOROUGHLY ORGANIZED, HE SAYS, AND FULLY.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS

Montreal, June 2.—A strong attack on certain schools of thought and a claim concerning the duty of the clergy in advancing the cause of the church in the world, were among the important points in a lecture given by Rev. J. A. Macdonald, bishop of Montreal, last night.

He declared that there are certain political questions where the clergy can and should interfere. He said that the clergy should not be afraid to speak out on these questions, and that they should be prepared to stand up for the church in the face of any opposition.

He also declared that the clergy should be prepared to stand up for the church in the face of any opposition. He said that the clergy should not be afraid to speak out on these questions, and that they should be prepared to stand up for the church in the face of any opposition.

BUILDING THE GATEWAY TO THE PEACE RIVER COUNTRY

Edmonton, A City of Substance Has Good Reason for Faith in the Future, says Monetary Times Editor. Significant Signs in a Metropolis in the Making

Toronto, May 31.—The Monetary Times in its current issue publishes a highly flattering article concerning Edmonton. It is written by the editor, Fred W. Field, who has been touring the west. It is as follows:—

In a few years agricultural, manufacturing and wholesale trade will punctuate astonishing anomalies at Edmonton. Also, the city is the first metropolis in the west to grow potatoes, which give abundance of yield to the acre, instead of shipping them to southern Alberta from New Brunswick and other distant points. Men will turn out sewer pipes to satisfy the local improvement committee of African cities here and coming, instead of sending big orders to Ohio and Illinois. They will manufacture soap and leather and biscuits instead of shipping the raw material east and the finished products back again west. As northern lights of progress into eastern commercial states, our wholesale capitalists will establish their warehouses at the gateway to the west, instead of allowing another slice of Canada business to go to our enterprise, eastern neighbors. Thus, real conditions are adjusted and the capital city of Alberta set into its stride.

Books as the Index.

One of the largest and most modern bookstores in this city today is handling books. Look at the stock, and you see that the book-store variety predominates, along with top books and books that will lead the local strain of pioneering. There are the few kinds which will have their natural attraction to the west, and to the Peace River empire.

That vast country beyond has been to natural resources, waterways and possibilities, alone sufficient reason for Edmonton's stand. If the facts had decreed the city's development should be based on that of the northland only, the future would have been good. But they have better. Many cities, many sections of the Dominion have their unexploited territories, and Edmonton has millions of valuable acres for its back garden.

If the facts had decreed the city's development should be based on that of the northland only, the future would have been good. But they have better. Many cities, many sections of the Dominion have their unexploited territories, and Edmonton has millions of valuable acres for its back garden.

To the westward, rare thoughts of journalists create the wish that Providence will spare life to witness such a feat, and then smoke and turn to rest, and golden crops where once Nature and man's faith in the future are chief detestants. It is unreasonable. It is possible. Men live now who remember the "risk" which the builders of the Canadian Pacific railroad took when they steeled the prairie, defied a barren wilderness to New York. Those parties produced 160,000 pounds of wheat last year. Five hundred millions for 1912 is a modest ambition. To the eastward, the perspective is different. It could, with advantage to all, be improved were he to get away from his Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton, desk, perch a few feet. Keeping that by correspondence helps, but individual judgment on the spot is better. Look for one east and west. When we have to float from sound sense, or drift from the practical business base, our certain business may be found. Figure what has been accomplished with certain facts in a given period. Estimate what may be done with the same or better assistance in the coming decade. You hear chiding because forecasts, ten, eight, even five years ago, was not sufficiently keen. There is a possibility now that we may not see the inevitable coming round the corner. Eliminate the local gambling element and Edmonton still stands a solid metropolis in the making. Alberta remains one of the most admirable countries. Canada looks large as a community of nations, and Edmonton is a community of nations. One cannot but join hands with the men who are building the gateway city to the fertile Northland. They have faith. The lack of it would be criminal.

Told by the Business Barometers.

The exemplification in Edmonton is seen in bank clearing, building construction, customs returns, post office receipts—barometers of conditions. The percentage gains in all are substantial testimony to growth. Last month's earnings were 44 per cent ahead of April of the previous year; customs returns, 100 per cent. The increase for the first four months of the year shows a remarkable progress, 118 and 140 per cent, respectively, over the first four of 1911. Men are credited into Edmonton and its district, springing out the land. Some central travelers are going that far north for the first time. In a few years, business will take them where men look and feel like north. Railroad contractors are busy with a network of steel which is to be spun in Alberta. Meanwhile, the Edmonton skating rink is out act as rooming homes to keep pace with the influx of new population.

Every ten men, perhaps, who come to see the Edmonton, a foreman is introduced to one of the bank covers the other day and intrude over his handle of German papers to the manager. He in turn leads them around before closing time into a department of 100,000. That is typical of the business in this new country. It has its peculiar problems, but it has the finger to the future. At Edmonton, its best is according to the director's thinking. It is a tendency to jump a little too far at times.

The family of the country in this capital stands will show a different sort of wide as the world. The land without rival. Good cannot come out of it. The land is the possibility in this direction. The best advice is given by the Edmonton people themselves. "Come and grow with us."

DEAR VERVA--

I wrote you yesterday, giving all the news, but I just had to write another short note today. You know I always let you know quick about a good thing. Last time you were here, you asked our tea. We thought it pretty good too, but since then we have found the best tea we ever made. There can't be any better tea anywhere.

Don't you wish you had some? Well, your grocery will send it out when you say to him.
